New Features for 2007...

Extruded rubber fork covering system

Replacing the previous lace covering, the new extruded rubber fork covering system provides added cushion protection and is extremely resistant to cuts and tears. Since each fork is covered with five bolt-on four-foot rubber sections, this flexible system allows sections to be easily be unbolted and rotated to prevent uneven or premature wear. This also allows for easy replacement of a single section rather than having to replace the entire covering system.

MD3 display upgrade

The MD3 color display eliminates the need to connect a laptop to the vehicle in order to make adjustments to the vehicle settings, allowing adjustments to be made right from the display. It also supports user pass codes for security.

Rear collision sensors

Sensors on the rear of the vehicle will emit a visual and/or audio warning notifying the operator of persons or objects within a predetermined distance. This is an added safety benefit to the already low-profile counterweight, eliminating the need for rear-facing cameras.

Algae fuel filter system

After a period of time sitting in a fuel system of a vehicle, or in a facility storage tank, diesel fuel starts to deteriorate, forming noticeable and sometimes significant deposits in filtration equipment, as well as sludge in tanks and other components. This reduces the vehicle's performance significantly and usually leads to costly maintenance or repair work. The new algae fuel filter system reverses this degradation process, restoring and stabilizing the fuel quality, as well as trapping various sediments and water.

Battery connector and cables

With easy access to the batteries in the flip-open step compartment, jump-starting disabled boats is made even easier with an easy-to-reach dedicated jumper connector and jumper cables located inside the compartment.
